State of Public Feeling in Hungary-The People Rife for Liberty. The Pesth correspondent of the London

Times writes, May 1, as follows:

We had yesterday another grand national demonstration in this city. A solemn service for the repose of the soul of the late revered Count Lisechenyi was celebrated in a Catholic Cathedral, and the venerable Cardinal Archbishop of Gran, who is Primate of Hungary, came to Pesth expressly to officiate at it. The church was decked with black hangings, and a vast catafalque was creeted, which was guarded by about three hundred students carrying terches. The sacred edifice was crammed to suffocation, and in the gathering were the greatest, the noblest, the most patriotic of the land. But the crowd inside was nothing to that which was collected without. The latter, seconding to the most patriotic of the land. But the crowd inside was nothing to that which was collected without. The latter, seconding to the most space of the Yare-ha (town-half) as well. During all the time the service lasted, which was full two hours, this huge multitude stood barsheaded and maintained a solemn silence.

All the shops of the city and all the public Times writes, May 1, as follows:

bareheaded and maintained a solemn silence.
All the shops of the city and all the public establishments were closed all day long, and almost everybody was dressed in the national mourning costume. Altogether, the demonstration was magnificent and imposing.

After the service a deputation of the Academy, headed by Count Desselfy, the President, waited on the Cardinal Archbishop, Monsignor Sattewsky, to thank him for having officiated. The venerable prelate, in a neativ-turned speech, replied that, as a in a neatly-furned speech, replied that, as a Hungarian, he felt found to loin his country Hungarian, he felt found to join his countrymen in paying honor to the memory of the patriot whom the nation was mourning. A vast crowd, beaded by the students, also want to the Archiepiscopal Palace to thank the Primate, and, a deputation having been admitted to his presence, he delivered a speech, in which he said that patriotism and faith were necessarily united, and that by their union neither could ever perish. The deputation repeated the substance of the harangue to the crowd, and it was hailed with tundering cheers. The students and the people then sung the "Scoret," "Be ever faithful to the country, O, Magyars!" and then dispersed.

the country, O, Magyars!" and then dispersed.

In the evening a multitude again assembled and went to the Hotel of the Angol Kiralyno (Hotel of the Queen of England,) to pay their respects to the two young Groffox Szechenyi, Bela and Eugene, sons of the deceased patriot. The young noblemen were made to come on to the balcony, and they were received with rapturous applause. The elder expressed their thanks, and declared that they would always consider it a duty to imitate their father in devotion to the country.

In their visits to the Archbishop and the Counts Szechenyi, the crowd raised constant cries of "Eigen a haza!" "Eigen Koscuth!" "Eigen Szechenyi." ("Hurrah for the country, for Kossuth and for Szechenyi.") The cries for Kossuth prove that, though years have passed away since he was driven into exile, he still retains as firmly as ever his hold on the people's hearts. The demonstration in his honor on this occasion was the more significant from the fact that certain persons have been making an attempt to create a prejudice against him by representing that he did not a well toward Szechenyi." persons have been making an attempt to create a prejudice against him by representing that he did not act well toward Szechenyi in 1848-9. The brave Magyars justly hold that the trifling circumstance of having differed from Szechenyi is not sufficient to deprive Kossuth of their gratitude and love.

Remarkable Funeral Ceremonics in Catiforula and Panama.

A funeral took place in Marysville, California, recently, which attracted considerable curiosity on account of its novelty. The corpse was laid upon a bier, the head resting upon a pillow. A bandage of white cloth was fastened around the head, concealing the forehead, but the balance of the face was exposed. The hands were brought together over the body, which was covered with tinsel, and held a cracifix in their grasp. One end of the bier was borne on the shoulders of two men, while the other rested on the back of another's neck. This was preceded by an of another's neck. This was preceded by an open wagon, containing the friends and relatives of the deceased. On arriving at the grave, the tinsel was removed, and the body spond very nearly with the custom in South America. A funeral witnessed in Panama, corresponds very nearly with this. It appears that they have a very costly coffin, of most expensive materials, which is for the benefit of the public, and when a person dies, the corpse is arrayed similarly to the one mentioned above, and then laid in this open coffin. It is then been through the residence. coffin. It is then berne through the main thoroughfares of the city, the bearers indting in front of the houses of all the principal dignitaries. It is then borne to the grave, when it is taken from the coffin, divested of when it is taken from the comin, divested of its finery, placed in a plain wooden box and interred. The coffin is then laid away until the death of some other person, when it is again brought into requisition.

STUPIDITY OF THE POLICE—A CHICAGO DOGBERRY.—Charles Johnson is a policeman in Ghicago: not content with having a consciousness of his own stupidity, he desired to make it manifest to all men. So, prowling heavily about, his dull eye rested on a man, rather roughly clad, whom he at once arrested on a charge of vagrancy, being led to this step by the ordinary quality of the stranger's clothes. Having arrested his prisoner, he proceeded to examine his pockets, there finding a $300 draft on a well-known firm, one of $1,000 on a Decatur bank, and $60 in money. Neither the presence of this money, nor the excellent references the stranger gave, served to open the intellect of Dogberry, and the "vagrom man" was taken to a filthy lock-up; there he was kept for twenty-four bours, without food, the officers refusing to call on or send for the gentlemen whose names the prisoner gave. It was only by channet that one of these friends heard of the victim's situation, and hastened to bail him. Legal proceedings are to be commenced against Charles Johnson, the ornament of the Chicago Police.

Double Purionly Alliance—It is said that a double union is shortly to be effected between the princely families of Portugal and Hohenzollern. According to the statement, the hereditary Prince Leopold de Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, aged twenty for henzollern Sigmaringen, aged twenty-five, will marry the youngest sister of the King of Portugal, Donna Antonia (born in 1845), and the King Don Pedro himself, will wed the youngest daughter of the Prince de Hohen-zollern, the Princess Marie, also born in 1845.

A HORSE SERVICEABLE AT FIFTY-SIX YEARS or Ags.—Mr. Dampier, a farmer, residing near Taunton, England, is said to have a horse near Taunton, England, is said to have a norse in his possession aged fifty-six years, which he rides daily about his farm, and occasionally goes out hunting with. The animal is still fresh on his legs and free from blemish.

A Desperate Convict Shot in Maryland.

Wm. Lynch, a convict in the Maryland Peniteutiary, in Baltimore, whose refractory conduct had compelled the prison officers to make him carry a ball and coall for some time past, refused to work last Monday, and threatened to kill any person who would approach him. Upon the officers attempting to seize him, he lifted the iron ball, weighing thirty pounds, and assaulted them, when one of the officers fired at him, the ball entering his abdomen and lodging in the groin. The wound is mortal. The Baltimore Sun gives a sketch of his preceding career, of which the following is a synopsis: "At the age of four-teen, while an inmate of the Philadelphia House of Refuge, he set fire to that institution, for which he served out a sentence of fourteen years in the Eastern Penitentiary. He then wont to New York, where he was soon arrested for theft, convieted, and served four years in the Sing Sing State Prison. A Desperate Convict Shot in Maryland. soon arrested for theft, convicted, and served four years in the Sing Sing State Prison. Soon afterward he was tried and convicted of piracy in New Orleans, La., and scatonced to death, but the sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life. In four years afterward he was pardoned, and went to Baltimore, where he married, and soon after was arrested, tried and convicted for assaulting his wife with intent to kill. For this he was sentenced to the Maryland Pentitution of the sentenced to the s sentenced to the Maryland Penitentiary for seven years and six months, in February 1857, and was serving out this sentence when his career was stopped, as stated above." THE REFFECT OF ORGAN MUSIC UPON THE JAPANESS.—The Washington (D. C.) Star say, that the other evening one of the proprietors of Williards Hotel, caused the fine Concert Hall recently sided to the establishment to be lit up brilliantly with gas, and, procuring a fine organist, treated the Japanese to agree able music upon the large church organ, one of the best in the Federal metropolis, which still continues to grace the hall, for use on occasions of concerts of sacred music. It was the first time that any of the Japanese had ever heard the, to them, wonderful strains of such an instrument, and they exhibited as much curjustiv to comprehend its causes and nuch curiosity to comprehend its causes and reflects, as they have yet shown in examining remarkably ingenious American mechanism, for which their taste or propensity is strong indeed. They were not content until they had really learned more of the philosophy of the instrument than men ever before learned in the course of a single evening.

A MARRIED MAGISTRATE ELOPES WITH HI Servant Girli.—J. R. Burd, a magistrate in Nevarra, Stark County, in This State, eloped on Tuesday with Eliza Brewster, a girl who has been employed in his family as a domes-tic for the past year. The Squire is about forty years old, has been twice elected ma-gistrate in Nevarre and has heretofore borne gistrate in Nevarre and has heretofore borne an unblemished character. He was a man of considerable influence in Nevarre. We are informed that he took with him some $800 of money belonging to parties who had employed his official services, for which his bondsmen will have to suffer. He deserts a wife and four children. The girl is about twenty-two years old and quite pretty. It is supposed her winning ways infatuated the magistrate.

THE CATTLE SLAUGHTER IN MASSACHUSETTS.—The wholesale slaughter among the cattle affected with the pleuro-pneumonia, still continues in Massachusetts. The doctors say that the disease spreads by contagion, and every animal suspected of having even nipped a mouthful of grass from a field in which the infected cattle were known to be,
is doomed imanediately to the slaughter.
Some of the farmers are beginning to rebel at this sacrifice of their animals. They say the whole thing is a delusion, that an unnecessary excitement has been created about the matter, and that the slaughter of cattle is reckless and unwarrantable, and hereafter the present delusion will be classed with witchcraft and other excitements, which have so often carried away the New England have so often carried away the New Englan ALLEGED DOUBLE MURDER IN VERMONT.— The inhabitants of the town of Rutland are of another's neck. This was preceded by an open wagon, containing the friends and relatives of the deceased. On arriving at the grave, the tinsel was removed, and the body placed in a wooden coffin and interred. The deceased was a Mexican.

The ceremonies and mode of burial corresponds very nearly with the custom in South America. A funeral witnessed in Panama, corresponds very nearly with this. It appears that they have a very costly coffin, of most expensive materials, which is for the benefit of the public, and when a person dies, and lodged in jail.

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE AT THE INDIANA PENI-TENTIABY—ONE CONVICT SHOT DEAD.—Tues-day morning Mr. Seely, Warden of the Michigan City Penitentiary, telegraphed to Major Dunn, one of the Directors, that while mar-shaling a squad of twelve convictato proceed to the site of the new building, where the convicts are engaged in clearing the ground, seven of them broke from the guard, and made for the timber not far off. Instant efforts were made to recapture them, which were successful. Six of the runaways were re-taken; and one of them was shot dead.

MOR LAW IN WASHINGTON .- A silly attempt Mos Lawin Washington,—A silly attempt was made to break up a Republican ratification meeting at Washington, by downright rufflan mohocracy. Several of the speakers were insultingly interrupted, and while Mr. E. B. Washburne was speaking, a volley of stones was rudely thrown, and the mobocrats rushed in among the audience, and Mr. Washburne stood firm, called on the audience to "die in their tracks" rather than submit to such an outrage, and the rufflans were com-pelled to sneak off to save a thrashing.

ANTI-SLAVERY FEELING IN MASSACHUSETTS IN EASILY TIMES.—Among the ancient records of the North Hadsley (Mass.) Congregational Church is the following clause: "Provided, further, That if the owner of said pew shall let the pew, or any part thereof, to any negro or mulatto, or in any way admit any negro or mulatto to the possession or occupancy of the same, then the said pow, or share thereof o let or occupied, shall, in every such case, hereby immediately revert to and become he property of the said society."

ELOPEMENT OF AN INFLUENTIAL NEW OR-LEANIAN WITH AN OPERATIC SINGER.—A gen-tleman well known in New Orleans has betheman well known in New Orleans has be-come enamored of the graceful blandishments of a leading artiste in the late opera troupe at the Orleans Theatre, and forgetting his so-cial status, his numerous relatives, and last, but not least, his devoted and really very pretty wife, he left that city for parts unknown accompanied by the attractive artiste. It is rumored that the rumawayshave gone to New York.

Superlative Cauelty—A Man Pulls a House's Tongue Out of His Moute.—At Troy, N. Y., the other morning, Thos. Downing, a teamster, actually pulled the tongue out of a horse's mouth. Downing's team were in a cellar way, pulling on a heavy load. They could not pull it, when Downing stepped to the head of one of the animals, and opening its mouth caught hold of the tongue and pulled it out!

INFALLIATE REMEDY TOR DYNFFERA.— A good cure for the dyspepsia is to collect bills for a newspaper. If that don't give you an appetite, you might as well sell your stomach for tripe and be done with it.

Honor to an American Historian lu Lon-

At the annual dinner of the Royal Academy, on the 6th inst., a fair representation of the better classes of English society was present, including Cabinet Ministers, Peers, cembers of Parliament, authors, artists, &c. Among other names honored by the President, Sir Charles L. Eastlake, was that of Mr. J, Lothrop Motley, the American historian, now prosecuting historical researches in Europe. Sir Charles said: in Europe. Sir Charles said:

The the next tossi is "the interests of literature," a subject connected with no country; and in reference to which I have great pleasure in paying a just tribute to a distinguished American writer, Mr. Motley, who this day honors us with his presence. Mr. Motley's well-known work, The Rise of the Dutch Republic, has carred for its accomplished author the reputation of historical accuracy, philosophical largeness of restment, and clearness and vigor of style, while to the lovers of an enlightened freedom it offers the charm of a heartfelt sympathy in its subject. [Cheers.]

charm of a heartfelt sympathy in its subject. [Cheers.]

Mr. Motley responded:

I rise to express my gratitude and my embarmssment. I came here to feast my eyes and my ears, to admire the works of English genius which adorn the walls, and to listen to those men whose elequence has delighted unto-night, and has so often run through Europe. [Cheers.] But I came to listen and to admire only, for most unfortunately I have neither the habit nor the gift of public speech, and it is only for the sake of thanking you most fervently, but most briefly and simply, for the honor you bestow in mentioning my name before so distinguished an assembly, that I venture to rise at all. Some one of your own illustrious authors should have your own illustrious authors should have responded to the toast of "Literature"—some one to the manner born. And yet I believe that no true-hearted American can ever acthat no true-hearted American can ever account himself quite a foreigner when his foot treads the soil of Britain. [Cheers.] For myself I can only say that the innumerable acts of kindness, the warm-hearted friendly offices bestowed upon me, very, very far above my humble deserts, during my residence in this land, would require far more eloquent lips than mine, adequately to acknowledge them. I have only then to confess myself an honest bankrupt in ability to express or repay my obligations. I beg you once more to accept my most respectful thanks, and to assure you that your true English kindness is registered where every day i turn the leaf to read it. [Cheers.]

ROMANTIC AUDUCTION OF A SCHOOL GIRL ROMANTIC ADDUCTION OF A SCHOOL GIRL FROM A FEMALE ACADEMY.—On Saturday evening, says the Sun, a Miss Phipps, of Tennessee, left the Spingler Institute, New York, where she was a pupil, in company with General Bynum, also of Tennessee, and are now at the St. Nicholas Hotel, probably married. He had been in the habit, occasionally of victime Miss Phipps at the Legitime now at the St. Nicholas Hotel, probably mar-ried. He had been in the labil, occasion-ally, of visiting Miss Phipps at the Institute, who passed him off as a relative, but recently Mrs. Abbott, the governess, had requested him to discontinue his visits, she having heard that the "relative" was a sham. On Saturday General B. called again and had an interview with Mrs. Abbott and Miss Phipps, the result of which was, that he carried the young lady in his arms to a carriage which young lady in his arms to a carriage which he had waiting in front of the door, and the two were driven rapidly away. Mrs. Abbott used every effort to prevent the young lady from leaving, and threw her arms around her with that intent, but the ungallant Genner with that intent, but the ungalant Gen-eral thrust her rudely away and was soon in possession of hisprize. The Institute "young ladies" cried "shame," "shame," but the General did not seem to appreciate their re-marks. The couple had been acquainted in their native State.

THE VALUE OF GOODNESS .- Did it ever THE VALUE OF GOODNESS.—Did it ever strike you, that goodness is not mearly a beautiful thing, but the beautiful thing—by far the most beautiful thing in the world; and that badness is not merely an ugly thing, but the ugliest thing in the world? So that nothing is to be compared for value with goodness; that riches, honor, power, pleasure, learning, the whole world and all in it, are not worth having, in comparison with being good; and the utterly best thing for a man is to be good, even though he were never to be rewarded for it and the utterly worst thing for a man is to be bad, even though he were for a man is to be bad, even though he were to be punished for it and in a word, goodness is the only thing worth loving, and badness the onlything worth hating.—Charles Kings-

An Engineer Adelity Saves the Life of a Child.—The Coburg, (C. W.,) Star says that as a special train was going west on Tuesday, the engine-driver perceived a child on the track near the Port Hope Bridge. He immediately whistled on brakes and tried to reverse his engine, but was unable to do so as the machinery was new and did not work well. There was no time to lose, and quick as thought the driver sprang forward on the cow-catcher, and leaning forward, pushed the child from the track down the bank, to the unspeakable joy of the mother of the little one, who saw its danger and was hastening to the rescue.

A DIBHONEST ALDERMAN SENT TO PRIBO Alderman Robert L. Currey, of Philadelphia, had effected with one John Alexander a profitable arrangement, by which the latter profitable arrangement, by which the latter was to inform upon certain tavern keepers for selling liquor on Sunday, and when the parties were brought before the Alderman, the would, "for a consideration," agree to settle the cases without sending them to court. This shrewd and profitable enterprise was effectually broken up on Saturday last by Judge Thompson, who sentenced the Alderman, after conviction, to six months imprisonment in the county jail.

DISCOVERY OF FREDREICK THE GREAT'S LIT DISCOVERY OF FREDERICK THE GREAT'S LIT-BRASY FAILURES.—King Frederick the Great, of Prussis, during his lifetime, caused a splen-did edition of his works to be published, il-lustrated with numerous copper-plates; but after a few copies had been circulated, the King changed his mind, and the edition dis-appeared. The few copies that found their way to the public have since been considered as rarities. Lately, during some building re-pairs at Berlin, the secreted edition was found in a number of nailed-up boxes.

A SEDUCER COWHIDED BY THE MOTHER O A SEDUCES COWINDED BY THE MOTHER OF HIS VICTIM.—A fellow was cowhided in one of the Ogden Mills boarding-houses, at Co-hoes, N. Y., the other evening, by the mother of a young girl to whom he has been paying his attentions for a year or two past, and whom, it is alleged, he has succeeded in se-ducing. The affair created considerable ex-citement in that neighborhood, and during the flacellation the women was encouraged. the flagellation, the woman was encourage and loudly applicated by the bystanders.

AN OLD HERO GONE-DEATH OF AN OLD AN OLD HERO GONE—DEATH OF AN OLD BODY GUARD OF NAFOLKON.—Pierre Frederick Goll, one of the body guard of Napoleon the Great, died at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Pierson, in Newark, N. J., at the age of seventy-one years. He served as an officer under Napoleon during most of the Russian campaign, and was detained as a prisoner of war at Dantzie for three years. His regiment returned to France after the campaign, numbering but seventeen members.

A CRIMINAL NEARLY DESTROYS HIMSELF.—
Ambrose Dean was arrested in Le Roy, N. Y., on Thursday, charged with stealing a horse in Albion, to which place he was removed by the Sheriff. He attempted to jump from the window of the oar while the train was at full speed, and would inevitably have been killed, had not the Sheriff succeeded in drawing him back.

criminal consequences: criminal consequences:

About ten months ago, a young, beautiful and wealthy girl came to this city from South Carolina, a guilty refugee from the home of her birth, and the scenes alike of her innocence and her shame. The fear of exposure to the reproach and contumely of an uncompromising world had driven her hither, where she was unknown, and she found a shelter for her misery beneath the roof of a low procures in an obscure part of the city. In due time, the fruit of her unfortunate error approach time, the fruit of her unfortunate error ap-peared upon the stage of existence. Upon recovering from her illness, she left her "sin-less child of sin" in the keeping of her available, but by no means trusty friend, and with a heavy heart, returned to her once happy and heautiful home.

In the meantime the false custedian of the child, though amply rewarded for her services, transferred her charge to the care of a negro woman, and a few days ago the child, though its history was unknown, attracted some notice from outside sources by its sickly, famishing look, striking all who saw it with the suspicion that it was dying of hunger and exposure. The subject reached the knowledge of the police, and the negro woman, as we have mentioned, was arraigned before the Mayor, when the above developments were made, but as no guilt could be attached legally to the negro, she was disattached legally to the negro, she was dis-

First-class Sungical Butchery.—Carpenter, the man who was lately bally injured at Grand Rapids, Wisconsin, was most barbarously treated by the characters professing to be surgeons. They were about an hour or over amputating his leg, and the operation was performed with a dirk-knife and a rusty old buck-saw, which had to be filed out after the flesh was all cut away, before the bone could be sawed off, and after getting the hacked limb nearly ready for the bandages, they discovered that an artery had not been taken up, and the scene of butchery had to be re-enacted.
